Correction of the First Term Exam in English
Read the following passage carefully then answer the questions below

The Olympic Games

The ancient Greeks first had the idea of getting men together every four years to hold and witness sporting events. The first written reference to the Games is 776 BC. They lasted until 389 AD. The idea of having the modern Games was suggested in the mid 19th century by the father of the modern Games, Baron Pierre de Coubertin but they weren't a world event until 1896. In 1904, gold was the top prize for first place, silver for second and bronze for third. The five rings that appear on the Olympic flag were introduced in 1914 to represent the five continents. The Olympic torch, a major part of the ancient Games, was brought back in 1928. In the ancient Games, only the winner was celebrated with a crown of olive leaves to wear on his head. Today, it is estimated that some 100,000 people compete in the Olympic Games. Plus, there are many officials, referees, and scorekeepers to judge their performances as well as spectators who watch the events, and fans to cheer the athletes.
